Brentano's most sustainable collection yet, Favorite Things is the first to feature a PFAS-Free Stain Repellent. With a focus on the future, the Brentano Design Studio looks to create a more environmentally friendly world that will remain sustainable and safe for generations to come. While many of the new offerings showcase PFAS-Free Stain Repellent or recycled content, they still uphold Brentano's ethos of beauty and performance. "It is our mission to maintain a culture that seeks alternate constructions, finishes and reaches for a higher quality product that uses sustainable manufacturing practices from our designers and mills," states Founder Iris Wang. "This collection is a grouping of fabrics that utilize recycled fibers, can be used for LEED points, and contain less chemicals than those before it. I'm proud to continue to push boundaries with our designs and I will continue to seek out products and practices that will enhance our daily lives in a healthy and sustainable way."
